After more than 40 years of government service, Frank brings unparalleled experience to our military contracting, management and procurement activities.

After more than 40 years of government service, Frank brings unparalleled experience to our military contracting, management and procurement activities.

With knowledge stemming from his service as a Brigadier General in the U.S. Air Force and past President of the Defense Acquisition University, Frank understands how to navigate the complexities of federal contracting and procurement.

A graduate of the Defense Systems Management College and Industrial College of the Armed Forces, he has held several leadership positions involving these issues including Commandant of the Defense Systems Management College and Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Contracting.

Frank also served as a major weapon system program director, product group manager, and director of contracting for the Air Force's largest buying/acquisition center. He commanded the largest Air Force B-1B in-plant contract management office and Director of an in-plant Sub-Contract Management Division and led Contractor Procurement System Reviews.

Frank is Level III certified in both Program Management and Contracting. He received the Distinguished Presidential rank Award and was twice awarded the Department of Defense Distinguished Civilian Service Award, the highest performance excellence awards presented by the President and Secretary of Defense, respectively.
